

Background

Roanoke Vineyards, in Riverhead on the North Fork, is owned by veteran Long Island vineyard manager Richard Pisacano and his wife Soraya. Pisacano has been tending vines and growing grapes in this appellation for over thirty years; in fact, he helped plant and maintain most of the first vineyards on Long Island. For more than eleven years, he has also been the vineyard manager at Wölffer Estates. Pisacano brings a lifetime of experience to Roanoke Vineyards, and in just under four years, has already garnered impressive accolades for the winery.

Pisacano's partner-in-wine is Roman Roth, the winemaker behind Wölffer's fine wines and his own prestigious Grapes of Roth label. Between Pisacano's sure vineyard hand and regional expertise and the masterful touch of winemaker Roth, Roanoke Vineyards sets a high standard for traditional, limited-production, ultra-premium red wines.
