Background

Bridge Vineyards is both a boutique vineyard and an urban winery committed to making high quality handcrafted wines from select vintages. Its main focus has always been on meticulous vineyard care, hand harvesting, low yields and small wine-lot production. Co-owners Greg Sandor and Paul Wegimont work with winemaker Eric Fry (winemaker of Lenz Winery) in crafting the wines at Premium Wine Group in Mattituck.

Bridge Vineyards has a small tasting room/urban winery at the base of the Williamsburg Bridge, down the street from Peter Luger's restaurant, next to the East River. The new retail/tasting room has a complete line of Bridge Vineyards wines, as well as award-winning New York wines by the glass, bottle or case at its custom tasting bar. The facility also features barrel sampling, small-batch wine blending, interactive wine courses, seminars and private wine dinners. Bridge Vineyards' latest releases include the new Brooklyn Bridge label series of red, white and rosé table wines. All Bridge wines are available at the urban winery.
